TREASURY.

About the Seal of the Treasury Department.

The Philadelphia Evening Star has discovered that the seal at present used by the Treasury Department of the United States was never adopted by Congress, and that even its origin is a matter of the profoundest mystery. The histories of the seals of all other departments of the National Government, and of all the States of the Union, are known. We know when all of them were adopted, and their validity can never be a matter of question; but of the history of this seal little or nothing is known. This much is known concerning it, that in the early days of the Republic Congress appointed a committee to select a seal for the Treasury Department. The committee reported two designs, neither of which was ever formally chosen. But one of those designs have ever since been used by the Department, certainly without full sanction of law; so that the very grave question might possibly be raised whether the use of it would invalidate any document or issue to which it might be affixed. The gravity of the matter consists in the fact that none of our shrewdest numismatists or historians can tell us where the seal now stamped upon our bonds and greenbacks originally came from, or how long it has been in service. We venture to say that the most any of them can tell us about it is that it has the sanction of an indefinite number of years' usage. But that is hardly satisfactory enough; and it really seems to us, that to avoid all future trouble, Congress should pass a law as speedily as possible, confirming the seal which now adorns our national currency. Meantime, if the gentlemen who ought to know all about such matters can enlighten us, we shall be very glad to hear from them. If Secretary McCulloch could find time to delve among the dusky archives of a century, he might hit upon some clue. Perhaps Mr. Spinner, the Register of the Treasury, could clear up the mystery; or, perhaps, our learned townsman, Mr. Robert C. Davis, who is very successful in tracing up such misty questions as this, could assist the inquiry. If not, may be Dr. Lieber, the eminent historian, could. At all events, the question strikes us as being one of the highest national importance, and Congress ought to give it the earliest attention.

PENNSYLVANIA.

Congratulatory Address of the Democratic State Convention.

DEMOCRATIC STATE COMMITTEE ROOMS, } 808 ARCH STREET, PHILADELPHIA. }

To the Democracy of Pennsylvania:

The sturdy Democracy of Maine have covered themselves with glory.

In the very citadel of Radicalism they have demonstrated that you are upon the eve of a magnificent victory.

The two parties were last arrayed at the polls upon national issues in 1866. Maine then polled a vote nearly equal to her vote of 1864, whilst Pennsylvania polled her largest vote.

In 1866 Radicalism received in Maine 69,637 votes. In 1868 it receives, as they themselves estimate, 75,002 votes. This is an increase of 8 per cent. upon the vote of 1866.

In 1866 Democracy there received 41,947 votes, and in 1868 it receives 55,725 votes. This is an increase of 30 per cent. upon the vote of 1866.

In 1866 Radicalism received in Pennsylvania 307,274 votes, and the Democracy received 200,096 votes.

Apply the test of Maine to this vote, and Radicalism will receive in Pennsylvania an increase of 8 per cent., or 24,581 votes, making a total of 334,855 votes, and Democracy will receive an increase of 30 per cent., or 87,028 votes, making a total of 377,124 Democratic votes, showing that we will have a clear Democratic majority of 45,269 votes.

Whilst the totals shown by this estimate are too large for the vote that we will cast in October, no man who knows the condition of public sentiment in Pennsylvania will assert that the relative proportion will be lessened.

Maine voted for John C. Fremont, yet James Buchanan was elected President, and Pennsylvania led the column of States that made him the Chief Executive of the nation.

The hope of the republic is in the Democracy of the Keystone.

As in 1856, the responsibility of determining the contest now rests with you.

Maine has proven that you can again bring triumph to the principles you love.

Let us arouse to renewed energy and more determined effort.

By order of the Democratic State Committee.

WILLIAM A. WALLACE, Chairman.

THE AMAZONS.

A Family of Woman-Farmers In New York.

From the Revolution.]

As facts are worth more than theories, I will give you some account of Mrs. Roberts, who has gained the appellation at the head of this article. Some three years ago I visited her home in Fekin, a small village in Niagara county, N. Y. Mrs. Roberts' family consisted of herself, husband, seven girls and two boys. The mother at the outset of her married life had resolved to make no distinction in the development of her children, and she and her daughters went into the field and worked side by side with the men. The result was the girls could do as much work, and do it equally as well, as the boys, and the women were equal with the men in strength and capacity. At the time of my visit, six of the daughters had attained womanhood, and I was astonished to see the difference in the physical development of these women and those in the world at large; every one of them would measure across the shoulders and around the waist as much as any common-sized man. There was no part of farm-work but what they could do. Any one of these women would hitch the horses to the wagon, and load it with barrels of apples, potatoes, or cords of wood, or whatever it might be, drive eight miles to market, sell or discharge their produce, caring as little for what the world said of them as though it had no existence. They had a little world of their own, and whoever went there to visit them, felt a sense of freedom such as could not be felt elsewhere—at least so it seemed to me. Mrs. Roberts instituted what was called a farm-school, employing a good teacher, and taking a few children from abroad. She had four hours each day devoted to study and six to work; and after that the time was spent in pleasure and recreation. Musical and literary entertainments were gotten up, in which all the members joined, old and young. I have seen the father, on several occasions, engage in a wrestling-match with some one of his daughters, when it was hard to tell who gained the mastery; and here I will say that Mr. Roberts is a man six feet in hight, and of good mental qualities. He, as well as his wife, has been ever active in the cause of reform; he has presented several useful inventions to the public, among which is a peat machine, which he is now engaged in manufacturing and bringing before the public. They sold their farm soon after my first visit there, and now four of the daughters are married, and the family is somewhat scattered. Mrs. Roberts is beginning to come before the public as a speaker on equal rights, dress, reform and kindred subjects.

A MRS. LARKIN was found dead in her house in Montreal recently. Her husband was arrested on suspicion. He and a disreputable woman were found drunk in the house at the time. The body of the wife was lying neglected on the sofa.

TRADE.

Present and Prospective Condition of English Trade.

From the New York Daily Bulletin.]

The low rates of interest for money on both sides of the Atlantic is indicative of the general dullness of business. In this respect there seems to be a remarkable similarity between that state of trade in England and the United States. In both countries money is at minimum rates, with a comparatively limited demand, and a consequent want of activity in nearly all branches of business. In both countries, also, the depression is largely due to the influence of politics. The war rumors in Europe limit operations to the supply of commodities for immediate consumption, and inspires a distrust of the future that is fatal to anything like business energy and enterprise. The uncertainties regarding the Presidential election, added to our currency and debt troubles, produce nearly similar results in the United States.

But in both countries there are symptoms of a revival that promise more activity in business affairs. The latest accounts from England represent that there was a perceptible improvement in nearly all branches of trade except the iron interests. The Board of Trade returns for July show an increase of exportations amounting to £185 839, as compared with the previous month. Manufactured cottons show an increase of two and a-half per cent in value and twelve per cent in quantity. In woolen goods there has been an improvement of six per cent in value and thirty-five per cent in quantity, owing to the improved demand from the United States. Iron shows a large diminution of sixteen per cent, and in iron manufactures there is a decline of four per cent. In importations there is a decline of four per cent. in cotton, the arrivals during the month amounting to 710,793 cwts., against 748,898 cwts. in July, 1867. Wheat shows a reduction of nine per cent. The returns exhibit a decided improvement as compared with the previous six months of the previous year, although the total exports during the entire seven of the present year are two and three-quarters per cent. below those of the corresponding period in 1867, and of seven per cent. as compared with 1866. The total shipments during the first seven months of the present year were £100,349,426.

From the English manufacturing districts, during the latter part of August, the news is still more favorable. In the cotton and woolen districts there is an absence of anything like speculative demand, but there is an increased activity to fill orders for immediate consumption. There is very little new business doing, and orders are chiefly for home account. The demand for India and the United States is unusually low, and American merchants, especially, manifest a reluctance to enter upon transactions. The struggle for lower prices had not entirely ceased, and manufacturers decline orders that are based upon the assumption of lower prices for the raw material. The wool trade is generally dull, the activity being limited to American orders.

Sanguine expectations existed in England and on the continent of an improvement in business during the winter. There is an admitted scarcity of goods, and a general want of leading commodities by consumers. If the fears of a general war were removed business would at once improve. But as it is, all classes economise and hoard as much as possible, in anticipation of a pressure in case of a war. Thus the business conditions depend almost entirely upon the current of political affairs, and until the latter assume more consistency and definiteness nothing like a return to prosperity is to be looked for.

THE VEIL.

The New Order of Nuns in the Church of England.

From the Church News, September 2.]

A correspondent sends us the following: Last week a very interesting ceremony took place at this house. A young novice took the white veil, and entered upon her duties as a cloistered nun of the Benedictine order. The temporary chapel of the convent was very full on the occasion, the event exciting great interest among the Third Order of the Congregation. At 10:30 a procession entered the choir, and the priest commenced the common services of the Church of England, which was performed with every adjunct of imposing beauty which primitive ritual could lend to the celebration of the divine mysteries. After the chanting of the creed the young lady who was to receive the veil was led into the outer chapel, accompanied by her bridesmaids.

The postulant was dressed as a bride, with bridal veil and wreath, entirely in white; the little girls who attended her wearing white dresses over blue skirts. Having been publicly questioned by the Father Superior, certain psalms and anthems were sung; the novice's habit, scapular, girdle and sandals, wimple and cloak, having been solemnly blessed, the habit was then delivered to the bridesmaids. The Superior, then sitting on his seat before the altar, in full robes, as Father of the order, the acolytes having spread a towel over his knees, delivered to him a pair of scissors, whereupon the young novice was brought forward, and while the novices' hymn, "Farewell, thou world of sorrow," was being sung by the sisters, her long black hair was all cut off, the black, long tresses falling on the ground around her.

Her ornaments being taken off, she herself threw them also on the ground in token of having renounced the vanities of the world. She was then led out by two sisters to put aside her white dress, and soon returned habited in the Benedictine frock. The whole habit was then placed upon her by the Superior, while appropriate prayers and blessings were used. Lastly, after the binder and wimple were placed on the head, the white veil was solemnly blessed and incensed, and then spread over her head. She was immediately led by the Mother Prioress to her stall in the choir, holding a lighted taper in her hand, until her communion. Having taken the three vows for one year, the service concluded by the choir singing the anthem, "Wise virgin, take your lamp and come, the Bridegroom cometh, He calleth for thee."

The novice then rose and went forward to the altar steps, holding her lighted taper; and while she was receiving the sacrament, the choir curtain fell, and neither she nor the other sisters were seen any more.

The week before last a nun took the black veil in this house. The ceremonies of that occasion were more striking and solemn. The Feltham nuns are entirely inclosed; they never go out; they only see visitors at a grating in the convent parlor, and then their faces are covered. They observe the strict Benedictine rule, and recite the ancient Benedictine office. As their numbers increase it is hoped to establish the "Perpetual Adoration;" at present only a few hours a day are devoted to this purpose. During the watch, each nun wears a large flowing crimson veil over the veil of her order. We also are informed that the nuns hope to receive pupils as soon as the requisite arrangements can be made.

This house is the only strictly cloistered convent in the Church of England, in which the life of Mary, who chose the "better part," is altogether led. May the perpetual prayers and intercessions of those good sisters be of great blessing to our English Church! Their prayers are to be especially and frequently offered for the approaching council at Rome, that the Pope may have the boldness to make it indeed œcumenical by inviting the Anglican and Eastern bishops to attend, and that so the outward divisions of Catholic Christendom may be healed by him who is indeed the balm of Gilead. All letters desiring information respecting this house should be directed to the Very Rev. Mother Prioress, O.S.B., Benedictine Priory, Feltham, Middlesex.

THE PERSIAN.

Sketch of the Eccentric Mahommed.

From the New York Tribune.]

By the death of Ishmael Khan Aga Mahommed, which occurred on the 28th of August last, the theaters of Paris lose one of their oldest and most devoted patrons, and the public are bereft of a favorite subject of curious speculation. For more than forty years this eccentric Persian gentleman had been a familiar object in the French capital, which he was never known to leave, even for a day; but although every species of inquiry concerning his origin and antecedents was exhausted, little could be discovered beyond the facts that he lived in the Rue Rivoli, opposite the Tuileries; that he possessed an abundant income, and that he was animated by an uncontrollable passion for the drama. He could be seen every evening at the opera house or theater, conspicuously seated in one of the fauteuils of the first gallery (dress circle), calmly intent on the performance, and totally indifferent to the constant scrutiny of his neighbors, for which, indeed, his sumptuous Oriental costume and majestic personal appearance were sufficient excuses. He was always alone, and was never known to converse with any person, excepting under pressure of necessity. The mystery which surrounded him naturally attracted the attention of journalists, and for many years "The Persian" was a cherished topic for fanciful feuilletonistes. He was introduced into more than one dramatic "revus," and, it is said, always witnessed the mimic representations of himself with grave imperturbability, betraying no sign either of amusement or displeasure. Mery, the romance-writer, in a fantastic sketch, assumed that "The Persian" was one of the ancient race of fire-worshippers, and that the cause of his persistent attendance at the theaters was a religious determination to submit himself each night to the purifying influences of chandeliers and footlights. His true history, however, remained undiscovered. His domestic life was one of strict seclusion, and of late years he even refused to receive letters from any source. The only visitors admitted to him were members of the English and Persian Legations, and with these he was not upon terms of familiarity. In a simple and unpretending way he assisted the public charities of his neighborhood, but never permitted himself to be recognized as a benefactor of the poor. His chief desire in life seemed to be to shroud himself in impenetrable secrecy.

Since his death little light has been thrown upon his history. According to the Secretary of the Persian Legation, he was the son of a distinguished Oriental diplomatist, who, having been sent, about three-quarters of a century ago, by the Shah of Persia, on a mission to the English authorities at Bombay, was accidentally killed there in a riot caused by the wanton carelessness of some English officials. The influence of the Shah was sufficient to obtain for the son a pension of £5000 sterling, which was regularly transmitted to Ishmael Khan at Paris, during the last forty years of his life. Of his previous career nothing has been revealed, and the causes of his long exile from home and of his peculiar habits of life in Paris remain unknown.

The Grecian Bend.

From the New York Weekly Review.]

Although the following passage—extracted from a lady's private letter—was written with no thought of publication, we think our readers will be interested in a criticism by one of the fair sex on a bad fashion of the day:

But what shall I say of Hombourg life? How can I describe the women, the gambling saloons, the manners and customs of their frequenters, among whom I recognize many American ladies? The toilets are hideous—women positively devilish. I wonder, as I think of them, if they are really flesh and blood, and have souls; or if, after all, Mahomet was not partly right. Women of seventy years, or thereabouts, paint fearfully and adorn (?) themselves with flowers, laces, jewels, false hair, beads, and gewgaws enough to satisfy the taste of an Indian squaw. The young girls deform themselves purposely. They wear large humps on their backs, and on these bunches are bows of ribbon three quarters of a yard wide—so that it looks as if a monster bird had perched upon their backs. The heels of their boots are pointed, high, and exactly in the middle of the foot, and their gate is something startling. The young ladies, of course, lean forward, inclining their backs from the waist upward, at an angle approaching forty-five degrees, causing the hump or bunch before mentioned to protrude still more monstrously—even to deformity; and they necessarily walk as if treading on eggs, in such constant dread are they of a fall. This is the mode in vogue, and it is supposed to be a revival of the ancient classic Grecian bend!

AN old man, whose sight was defective and who had to use glasses, was reading a newspaper on the train between Wheeling, Va., and Washington, a few days ago. When the cars reached the first tunnel the quick disappearance of the light caused him to look up. Taking off his spectacles and wiping them, he replaced them and again tried to read. Perceiving that all was still dark, he dropped both paper and spectacles, exclaiming in a loud voice, "My God, I'm blind!" This aroused the passengers, and it was a long time before he could be convinced what was the matter. On coming again to the light he thanked God fervently for his sight.

MR. GEO. W. CHILDS, of the Philadelphia Ledger, not long ago presented to persons employed in responsible positions in the Ledger office life insurance policies amounting in the aggregate to $40,000, undertaking at the same time to pay the premium, about $3000 per annum, for ten years, at the expiration of which time the policies become, by their terms, self paying. Mr. Childs goes to Europe next month with his wife on a tour in search of rest and health.

A VETERAN of the Paris stage says that Mlle. Taglioni never appeared before the footlights without tossing off cold beef soup. Mme. Sontag drank the gravy of a very rare mutton chop before she went on. Mme. Alboni always took a glass of Bordeaux. Fanny Elssler drank a little sherry. Mme. Bosio invariably took a glass of orgeat. Malibran took good draughts of champagne.

It is said that over 600,000 acres of land along the Hannibal and St. Joseph railroad have been sold to immigrants, within the past six months.

The Dover (Ohio) Salt Company, on Thursday week, struck salt water at a depth of 850 feet, and will proceed to the manufacture of salt as soon as they can procure the necessary machinery.

A semi-lunatic woman, about thirty-five years old, named Jane Johnson, committed suicide near Nashville, on Thursday, by hanging herself. Her pipe was firmly clenched between her teeth when she was found.

The Tuscaloosa Scientific Association has given $300 to the trustees of the Selma free schools and $200 to the Montgomery Orphan Asylum. A little charity expended in civilizing the Tuscaloosa editors might not be misapplied.

A statement has just been made showing the total cost of the Government buildings, grounds and improvements in Washington, including the lighting and cleansing of the same, and all expenses connected with them, from which we learn that up to June 30, 1868, Congress has appropriated, in all, for such purposes, $11,534,940 29.

The life-size marble statue of Virginia Dare, by Miss Louisa Lander, sister of General Fred. Lander, will be sold at auction, in Boston, on Tuesday. The statue was shipped from Leghorn in 1860, but the vessel bringing it was wrecked, and Miss Lander subsequently purchased her own sculpture for $5000.

The statement that Jefferson Davis is to be offered the Presidency of Randolph Macon College, in Virginia, is authoritatively denied. The college is a Methodist institution, and has recently elected a popular Methodist clergyman President. Mr. Davis is an Episcopalian, and for that, as well as for other reasons, he has never been thought of in connection with this school.

In December, 1863, Mr. Stanton, then Secretary of War, gave as the cost of the War Department, on a peace basis, the sum of thirty-three millions of dollars. From official records it is shown that the War Department, in the three years since the close of the war, has cost six hundred and ten millions of dollars, or more than eighteen times that named at the close of the contest. Why is this? Because the Radicals are running peace on a war footing.

A meeting of the citizens of Ohio and Indiana resident in Washington, was held on Friday night, for the purpose of making provisions for all city clerks to attend the October elections in their respective States. The railroad companies have agreed to issue excursion tickets at half the regular rates. The attendance was large, and the indications are that between 300 and 500 clerks will avail themselves of the opportunity to use the right of franchise.

It is estimated that the expenses of the army in the reconstructed States amount to three hundred thousand dollars daily. The salaries of Bureau clerks alone amount to one million dollars annually. These figures explain the pains taken by Government officials to magnify every disturbance in the South, and the manufacture of others out of whole cloth, for without them there would be no pretext for continuing their stay there, and they would have to return to their original and legitimate vocations of dray-driving, wood-chopping, etc.

The Chicago Times of the 19th, says: The victory of McDevitt at Library Hall, on Wednesday evening, and the "wonderful" run he made, was the topic of the day yesterday. There are some who think it a stupendous piece of good luck, which could not occur again in a decade. But a far larger number claim that the champion will do the same thing on any given occasion—the battle, of course, to position. The champion's play is cottering every day, they say, and the work of night before last is only an earnest of what he will do after a while. Billiards, like astronomy and philosophy, is a progressive science. It has not yet attained its growth, by any means. It is rather in its infancy. John McDevitt is the foremost exponent of the game, but he has not yet reached perfection. There is far more yet to be learned than has hitherto been displayed even by him.

The erratic and "everlasting" George Francis Train, in a letter to the editor of the New York Evening Mail, says: Tell the Mail editor that in 1872 he may send up his card to the White House. I am going there—and this time hold the balance of power. By the middle of October I will have a crowd—call on Meehan—tell him to see my articles on Canada in Saturday's, next, Universal News. I say now go in and win. O'Neill is right. Costello and Warren are still in jail. If they cross the line in October, nobody will stop 'em. I shall win. Postponed till 11th, but I shall beat them in the end. See Miss Anthony; tell her to keep the flag flying! I hope to be with you by 1st of October. I am playing the mischief with Ireland. Keep the ball moving. I shall get my $500,000 from Perry, and my $1,500,000 from the U. P. R. I always win. Keep stiff upper lip. Tell Stanton and Dana, of Sun, they are trumps. They can cheat me to C——— without my knowing it while in jail.

An American citizen named Nicolaus Papofy (a native of Hungary), who lives in Pesth on the pension which he receives from the American Government, was yesterday at the beginning of August, while at his summer residence, by four gensdarmes, who, without assigning any reason, arrested and confined him in the district garrison, where a chance was afforded him to reflect, in the society of thieves and robbers, upon the vicissitudes of life. There he remained, without a trial or a hearing, for twenty-five days, and would probably be there still if an accident had not been the cause of his liberation. Confined in the cell next to his was William Madaraz, imprisoned there for political reasons, to whom he succeeded in communicating on a slip of paper the particulars of his arrest and unlawful detention in prison. Madaraz, to whom, for sanitary reasons, had been granted the privilege of visiting the bath house every second day, found an opportunity to send this paper to the family of the American who applied to the American Consul at Vienna, and two days afterward the accused was brought before a court. Here he was informed that there had been reasons for suspecting him to be implicated in the Benicsky affair, but as the suspicion had proved to be groundless, they would acquit him and he was accordingly set free.

A letter from Pond City, Kansas, says the recent Indian outbreak was preconcerted, with well matured plans, and not an attack by a strolling body of indians. The letter says the simultaneous attack made on all advanced settlements, and last west, for a thousand miles in extent, proves that it was a well understood plan on the part of the Indians. A party of Sioux recently discovered where the Indians had held a large war council. The medicine pole was still standing, with a hundred black rings painted around, showing the number of bands present, with a red stripe on the northwest side of the pole, showing the direction their women and children had taken. On the southeast side the party to the settlements on the Solomon, and a larger stripe on the north, showing that the main army had taken that course.

Dr. Goold, of Dublin, arrived in New York on Thursday last, from the Arctic regions, and gives some interesting particulars of Hall's Arctic expedition. Capt. Hall has ascertained, definitely, the circumstances of the death of the last two survivors of Sir John Franklin's party. Capt. Crozier and a steward of one of the vessels died in 1854, near Southampton Island. Mr. Hall is of opinion that they were killed by the natives. Capt. Crozier's watch and other relics are in Mr. Hall's possession. He was to start in February or March last, with an armed party of natives and Europeans, to secure some records left by Franklin's men in King William's Land.

A negro club recently paraded the streets of New Orleans, headed by carpet-bag office-seekers, and demanded that the American flag should be taken down from the different Democratic headquarters. During the war, Gen. Dix wrote a letter to an officer on duty, ordering him to shoot down the first man who dared to pull down the "Stars and Stripes." That sentiment was loudly applauded by the Radicals at the time. But now negroes are praised and complimented when they insult the flag, and white men who wish to protect it. This is Radical patriotism.

PERTINENT QUESTIONS—MINORITY GOVERNMENT.

We have observed, with some care, the general drift of the Radical argument addressed to the Northern public from the stump and through the press, and find it to consist of really but two elements. One seeks to play on the apprehensions of the Northern people as to another civil war. The other strives to excite the hatred and prejudices of that section of the country against the South, and revive the passion temper engendered by the war, which were slowly languishing to their extinction. Of course we leave entirely out of sight their appeals for the favor of the land invested capital. The support from that quarter was already guaranteed to Radicalism, because Radicalism had pledged itself to enslave the people to the bondholder. This alliance was the result of bargain. It was a mere matter of trade. Therefore, so far as the discussion is concerned, it is unnecessary for the Republican champions to present for the consideration of this class any suggestions whatever. It would be as useless as an argument made to a packed jury. There is nothing to be said, but what a decent regard for appearances may require. The bondholders may be considered simply as part of the Republican machinery, entirely isolated from the people, and simply seeking, through the success of Radicalism, their individual interests. The Democracy have no arguments to make to this class, except to their patriotism and that more enlarged intelligence, which will take a part of a loaf at present rather than lose all in the end. The cases are not numerous, where imagined interest ever yielded to patriotism, or avarice was willing to sacrifice immediate gain for future safety. Hence, Democracy has nothing to hope from the bondholders. But they only constitute a small class at last, when compared with the American people, the great mass—the "toiling millions," who work for their bread, and whose interests the Democratic party bears on its stalwart arms. Therefore Radicalism finds it essential to its success to alarm the fears and arouse the passions of the Northern masses.

There are, however, others besides the bond-holding capitalists, who are "solid men." These are told by Radical speakers and Radical editors with much iteration, that unless the men now in power are granted a new lease of office, civil war will be renewed. We desire to propound to these solid men some very plain questions: Which condition of affairs is most likely to result in disturbance, discontent and intestine commotion, that condition where the physical-numerical majority of the people are on the side of the official or legal majority, or where it is against it? Which is more apt to bring peace and harmony, the party that is in accord with the sentiment and opinions of a majority of the people, or one that is not? Is it probable that in this country a majority will long submit in peace to be governed by a minority, however the statute book may read?

Now, we are not to be understood as encouraging a violent overthrow of even odious and oppressive laws,—or fostering a lawless impatience under harsh and vindictive administrations. Yet we will remind the "solid men" of the North, that civil war began under a minority President. It might have been different, if Mr. Lincoln had come into power backed by a majority of the people. We believe in such an event there would have been no war. We are, however, only meeting the Radicals on their own selected ground. They decline to canvass the merits of their policies, and endeavor to commend themselves as the party of peace. The present condition of the country ought to refute their assumptions in this regard. Nevertheless, the questions propounded must indicate their inability beyond a peradventure, to pacify the discontents of the people. There is a strong probability that a popular majority will be against them, even in the so-called "loyal States," though the technical majority in the Electoral College might be for them. Certainly no one can doubt that the large opposition to them in the North, added to the people of the South, will place the Republican party, should it be successful through the forms of the electoral college, in a fearfully small minority of the whole people. Thus the Radical incumbents would be unsustained by the physical majority, indeed would have that majority arrayed against them in sentiment and feeling under circumstances and at a time when they are especially odious. It would be a physical majority, in whose breasts hate towards them would largely predominate. In this view of the case, we ask the "solid men" of the North, whether they would not be nearer peace with the Democratic party, whose success would necessarily be sustained by this physical majority, than with the Republicans? Minority government is not calculated to produce peace. It has so far signally failed in the United States. For eight years it has been on trial, ever since the inauguration of Lincoln, 4th of March 1861. The results of that test, certainly, are not encouraging. The State governments of the South have been, since the termination of the war, minority establishments. No one will be bold enough to say that these have conduced to peace. Minority administrations will not secure order, peace or prosperity in this country. The American people will have a government in accord with the sentiment of the majority, even if they exchange the present republican form for that of an empire. To continue the Republican party in power is to continue a minority government; for it is plainly manifest that whatever might be the result in the electoral college, this party cannot command the physical majority of the country. It will likewise be in antagonism with the great bulk of opinion, and the relations between it and the great mass of the people can only be those of avowed enemies. Radical success cannot, in the nature of things, procure peace.

JEWISH.

The leading editorial of the latest New York Jewish Messenger contains the following, to which we call the attention of our readers of Hebrew faith:

To one and all of our brethren we send greetings and wish them a happy New Year!

The year 5628 has not been an uneventful epoch in the history of the Order.

The dedication of the new Jewish Orphan Asylum in Cleveland and the General Convention of the Order in New York will ever remain as important landmarks in the annals of the Brotherhood.

But the past with all its achievements is as nothing in comparison with the future! The young men of Israel in the Order Benai Berith have magnificent opportunities presented for the realization of the noblest works known to humanity.

In noticing the erection of costly houses of worship it says:

With the erection of new and costly places of worship for our community, there is a tendency to ritual associations which impress the eye rather than touch the heart. Is this a step forward?

* * * * *

The service in the synagogue, as in the church, should be such as to interest the auditory from beginning to end, and they ought to participate in it directly. It is not impracticable to instruct the regular attendants in vocal music to an extent permitting them to join correctly in the hymns and responses, and the place of the choir is to lead, and not to monopolize the melody.

THE CONTEST IN NORTH CAROLINA.

A correspondent in North Carolina, as an addenda to a business note, sends us the following cheering news from that State:

All things are working for the success of Seymour and Blair. Little Davie county will give them 300 majority in next November, and we hope to carry the State for the ticket, and if all will do their duty in this contest, which appears to be the determination of the people, it can be done.

WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, September 22—The Postoffice authorities are investigating the defalcation of disbursing clerk Olmstead. The amount unaccounted for on the books is $47,000. Olmstead has not been arrested.

Gen. Rawlings received a letter from Gen. Grant, who is still at Galena, and will not probably visit Washington before the middle of October.

More than half of the members of Congress have already left for their homes.

The Secretary of the Treasury to-day ordered to be issued to the Central Pacific Railroad Company $1,120,000 in bonds, on account of the completion of thirty miles of that road extending to the 300th mile one east of Sacramento. The bonds bear interest from September 19 h.

In the Criminal Court this morning the counsel for John Surratt entered a special plea setting forth the amnesty proclamation of July 4th, and claiming that Surratt is within that portion of the provision pardoning all parties for treason, felony, etc., who were not then under indictment for those offenses in any court of competent jurisdiction in the United States. His counsel claim that he was at that time solely under an indictment for murder at common law, and not for treason or felony, and consequently he is entitled to the benefit of the proclamation. To this the prosecution enters a special demurrer and will proceed to the argument.

The following was received to-day by Gen. Howard, from Atlanta: "A delegation of colored people going to attend a public meeting at Camilla, were attacked by the whites because, as is alleged, they were armed, and ten or more were killed. Probably fifty men were killed or wounded. Wm. E. Pease, a white Republican candidate for Congress, was shot in the leg. John Murphy and E. F. Putney, white speakers, were also wounded. As far as known, only two of the attacking party were injured. No further difficulty is reported.

(Signed.) C. G. SIBLEY, Brig. Gen'l."

The Retrenchment Committee are investigating the circumstances attending the working of the new revenue laws. Commissioner Rollins was before them to-day.

It is probable that orders will be issued to the General Commanding in Georgia to make a full investigation of the riot at Camilla.

Gen. Schofield was for a long time this evening in consultation with the President.

[NOTE.—Owing to the heavy storm that prevailed last night, and which seems to have been general, extending east of Louisville, it was impossible to get the full report.—REPORTER.]

GEORGIA.

NEW YORK, September 22.—The Tribune's Atlanta special says of the Camilla riot: "When near the town the Republican speakers were met by Rebels, mounted and armed, who warned them not to go into town. They went on, and were soon met by the sheriff of the county, who informed them that the people would not allow a Radical to speak in Camilla. They persisted, however, and on reaching the court-house they and their friends were assailed by a Rebel mob. Col. Pierce was dangerously shot. Capt. Murphy is badly hurt, and many of the Republicans were killed and wounded. A large majority of the Republicans were colored men, who, obedient to Gov. Bullock's proclamation of the 18th instant, had left their arms at home. Official reports place the number of killed and wounded at fifty. These outrages are being perpetrated all over the State. Gov. Bullock sent a strong message to the Legislature this p.m., accompanied by an official report of the riot from Major Howard, U. S. A., commanding the sub-district, and recommending the Legislature calling on the President for troops to suppress the insurrection and enforce the laws of the State. A resolution was offered in each House calling on the President to furnish sufficient military force to preserve the peace, etc., but it was voted down in both Houses, and the Governor's message referred, where it will lie buried.

FOREIGN.

PARIS, September 22.—La Patrie publishes the following from the Spanish Ambassador here: Madrid is quiet, though the people are much excited. The troops are faithful. At Cadiz the troops and citizens are faithful, but the garrison has been reinforced as a precautionary measure. The other towns were quiet.

LISBON, September 20.—The telegraph line in Spain are disordered in every direction. The news is uncertain and contradictory. Gen. Prim and Dutasto are at the head of the insurgent forces, and are marching on the capital.

LONDON, September 22—The following additional has been received from Spain: Concha is at the head of the Queen's troops. Prime Minister Bravo has fled. The Queen is at San Sabastian, and the road between that place and Madrid is invested with the revolutionists. Martial law has been proclaimed throughout Spain.

Sixty armed persons, led by an American, attacked the house of Mr. Justice Daily, near Cork, last night, and stripped it of arms. No arrests.

Dan. Moriarty and Patrick Dolon, who were convicted of Fenianism in Australia, have been pardoned; also Michael Hanley, of London.

Eight additional Spanish Princes have proclaimed for the revolutionists. The sovereignty of the people is the war cry of the insurgents.

NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, September 22.—The Ku-Klux are said to have invaded New Jersey. For some time mysterious warnings, accompanied with symbolic cards, daggers, bloody heads, and coffins, have been received by Radical members of the military companies, but no notice was taken of them, excepting a series of stupid jokes. On last Sunday night, however, Lieut. Blymer, of Co. H., New Jersey rifle corps, was knocked down by a slung-shot, in Kearney, and when found he was insensible. Near him was a pistol marked with Ku-Klux hieroglyphics and other evidences of the Klan. The police are now on track of the mysterious marauders.

Gen. Dix, United States Minister to France, writes as follows concerning Gov. Seymour: "I have been acquainted with Mr. Seymour for more than a quarter of a century. He is an amiable gentleman, of unexceptionable character, and of respectable talents, but he has not a single qualification for the successful execution of the high official trust to which he has been nominated, and he is especially deficient in that firmness of purpose which, in critical emergencies, is the only safeguard against public disorder and calamity.

MR. ROGERS' NEW CHURCH.—Editors Appeal: That my "invitation to the public," to the first services, on next Sunday, in the Greenlaw Opera House, published in Sunday's issue of your paper, may not be misunderstood, I have to request you for the space in your columns, to state that the "Dean" did not give his approbation as the representative of the Bishop, but in his capacity as a Priest of the city of Memphis. J. W. ROGERS.

A CHARACTERISTIC RADICAL FALSEHOOD was told by the evening Radical organ a few evenings since in charging the "Democratic Board of Aldermen" with having imposed a tax of fifty dollars on every "colored man" who may venture within the limits of the city with a load of wood. It also adds the assertion that this action was sanctioned by the mayor, and as a crowning falsehood, gives a Radical alderman the credit of having secured its repeal. The facts in the matter are simply these: The ordinance was presented to the Board by a Radical alderman. Its adoption was found to work with a severity not intended by its author or those who supported it, and so a special meeting of the Board was called by the mayor, who in a verbal message recommended its repeal, which was done without a dissenting voice. The insidious baseness of the falsehood consists in the use of the word colored, and by this means trying to make the ignorant negro believe the ordinance did not apply equally to white and black.

PERSONAL.

Our much esteemed young friend Wm. B. Leidy, for the last two years connected with the drug house of H. C. Steever, of this city, left last evening for Philadelphia, whither he goes to attend lectures in the School of Pharmacy, during the coming winter. We trust his sojourn in the Quaker City may prove both pleasant and profitable, and that with the spring he may return to his many friends, his mind replete with Pharmaceutical lore.

We were pleased to meet Prof. H. C. Lippard, who arrived in our city last evening. This will be pleasing news to the many young Misses and Masters of Memphis to whom the Professor is well known.

THE TAX ON MERCHANDISE.

Meeting of the Chamber of Commerce.

Resolutions of the Merchants Not to Pay the Tax.

The hall of the Chamber of Commerce was filled yesterday evening with the merchants of the city, who assembled in response to the call of Mr. Humes, of the firm of Humes, Poston & Webb, to hear his opinion and take concerted action on the matter of the tax on merchandise as now levied by the State and collected by Mr. Longue.

At 5 o'clock the meeting was called to order, and Mr. Humes was called to the chair. Mr. Humes, in laying before the meeting the object in calling them together, made a short address, amounting to about the same thing as the letter published in the APPEAL yesterday morning. He stated that the action of the State was undoubtedly illegal, and that a recourse to the courts would relieve them of the burdens entailed upon them.

By the Constitution of the United States, the power to tax imports from foreign States, and to regulate Commerce between the States of the Union, is entrusted to Congress. The Supreme Court of the United States decided many years ago that this power to tax imports from other States, or from foreign States, was exclusively vested in Congress, and that no State of the Union could levy a tax on such imports, in the hands of the importer, or upon sales by the importer in the original package. This decision has been reaffirmed several times by the same court, and has been uniformly acquiesced in by the State courts. It is an established rule of law, beyond the danger of reversal.

This tax is operating as a discrimination against Memphis in favor of the cities of adjoining States. The repetition of the tax on each successive sale is also illegal, and operates as an additional burden on the Memphis merchants. If the merchants of Memphis will all unite to resist this tax, we are satisfied it can be stopped at once.

Wm. R. Moore, Esq., arose, and in a very forcible address urged a united effort on the part of the merchants to break down the odious law, and wound up by offering a resolution, that hereafter no merchant pay the tax to Mr. Longue until the legality of the law be tested and a decision rendered by the courts.

Mr. Moore's motion received several seconds, but before a vote could be taken J. M. Hill, Esq., said that he would like to be allowed a few words on the subject. He thought that the merchants were acting prematurely and too hastily, citing as a precedent the action of the merchants of this city some twenty years ago. He was against the tax as much as any of them, but was opposed to taking any such action in the premises. It was only postponing the evil day. He knew it from experience. Twenty odd years before there was a tax of 1½ per cent. laid on the merchants, and they refused to pay it, and went to law about it. The courts all decided against them, from the lowest to the highest. For his part he did not want to buck against the State of Tennessee. It was a little expensive, he could tell them, and annoying too. He thought they were going into this thing rashly, and the result would be the same.

The Chair said he thought Mr. Hill was mistaken. He had studied the matter thoroughly for two months, and if any decision had been rendered on this point, he did not know it. The Chair then went on to show that the case spoken of by Mr. Hill and the present one had no analogy to each other. In the course of his remarks he said that he did not want the impression to go abroad that he was counselling the merchants to defy or set aside any of the laws of Tennessee. He was only counseling them to try a lawful means of relieving themselves of what he believed to be an unlawful burden.

After some further discussion Capt. Moore offered the following resolution, which was adopted, and the meeting adjourned:

Resolved, That we, the merchants of Memphis, having no disposition to disobey or set at defiance any of the laws of Tennessee, do, nevertheless, determine that inasmuch as we are opposed beyond endurance by the present tax on privileges, and its construction by our county clerk, we will unanimously refuse to pay that portion which we believe to be illegal, until we can get a decision from the courts as to its legality.

Preamble and Resolutions.

Editors Appeal: A Democratic meeting was held and a club organized at Cherry Valley, Cross county, Ark., on the 5th inst. The following preamble and resolutions were adopted:

WHEREAS, "Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty," and it is the duty of the people so to elect a Chief Magistrate in the place of Andrew Johnson, and

Whereas, There is now going on a most unscrupulous attempt to fasten upon the country permanently the reign of Radicalism by the election of Gen. Grant to the Presidential office, and by the enforcement of a series of measures inaugurated by the (so-called) Congress of the United States, many of which are a flagrant usurpation of the liberties of the people, and in palpable derogation of the Constitution of the United States, therefore, be it

Resolved, That we, a portion of the people of Cross county, in view of the exigencies of the occasion, hereby pledge ourselves to the most unremitting energies for the defeat of the nominees of the Radical party and for the election of Seymour and Blair to the offices of President and Vice President of the United States.

Resolved, That we are in favor of organizing Democratic clubs in all parts of the State for the purpose of more effectually securing the co-operation of all the elements of opposition to the success of the dynasty now in power.

Resolved, That we are sincerely in favor of peace, and opposed to war as a remedy for existing evils, that the "ballot and not the bullet" is our doctrine now, and that we have looked with distress upon the efforts of our enemies in the so-called Congress of the United States, and in the bogus Legislature of our own State, which has lately adjourned, to exclude from the ballot box a large majority of the white men of the State, and the admission to the polls of all the inferior race, thus subverting the fundamental principles upon which our government was founded.

Resolved, That we indorse and approve every word of the platform of principles enunciated by the great conservative Convention, and have nominated our standard bearer in this contest, and that we have an abiding faith in the determination of the American people to elect them.

Resolved, That we hail the advent into our midst of such a "carpet-bagger" as the Hon. G. G. Cameron, with pleasure, and that we have plenty of room for many more of the same sort, and that we heartily indorse his nomination and candidacy for Congress, and we call upon our fellow-citizens, who are in favor of equal rights among white men, to rally to his support.

Copies of these proceedings be forwarded to the Memphis APPEAL, and to the APPEAL, forwarded to the Cross county Democrat, and to the same.

With request to publish. J. W. WEBB, President.

B. ROBESON, Secretary.

EDITORIAL.—Mr. GATES, editor of that sterling old sheet, the West Tennessee Whig, has the issue of that paper of Saturday last, before us, so soon as we get rid of radicalism, advocate a meeting of the editors of Tennessee, at Nashville, for the purpose, among other things, of proposing a release of "as poor ensues" from the proscription to which we are subjected by the office-seekers for whom we work so hard. He says:

It has ever been astonishing to us that the editors of the country, combining as they do as much talent, genius and merit, as any other class of men of an equal number, and who really mould public opinion, and direct it with the powerful lever of the Press, should so long have submitted to this proscription. Whilst we, individually, have no ambition for office, as the private pool is now the post of honor; we are resolved to assert and maintain the rights of editors, equally with other classes; and, as soon as we emerge from Brownlow's despotism we shall advocate a Convention of the editors of Tennessee to meet at Nashville, to take in consideration, among other things, the proscription under which they have so long remained.

Go in Colonel, we'll back you up.

VELOCIPEDES would sell well in Memphis, and we wonder that some enterprising merchant has not already introduced them to our market. We need some other means of locomotion than those at present in vogue. The street railroad tariff is very high, and a man may wait (as we have done) twenty minutes on the corner of Jefferson and Main for a car before one passes; and after one does come along, the pace at which it travels is only equaled in slowness by that of a snail. As to hacks, they are out of the question for a business man, unless he is a Croesus. Velocipedes are the thing. Who will reap the first harvest from their introduction?

We have received from the artist, our friend James R. Stuart, Esq., at present of St. Louis, but formerly, for a time at least, a resident of Memphis,—a photographic copy of a drawing in India ink, entitled, "Let us have Peace," "Delirium Tremendous, or Grant's Dream." As a pictorial "campaign document," it is the most terribly striking production that has yet appeared. The photographic copy before us is about eight inches long by four broad. The center figure is Grant. With mouth half open, and staring eyes starting from his head in horror, he stands aghast at the hideous phantasmagoria with which he is surrounded. Around his feet, which are planted wide apart, serpents and vermin are writhing and hissing. In his left hand he grasps a decanter, while his right is held by a female figure, clad in black and with disheveled hair, crouched upon the earth, with her right hand raised—a Nemesis invoking vengeance, and pointing him the horrors around him. Another female form, clad like the first, with outstretched arm, points to an army of vast and countless myriads of skeletons. Behind these two stands a long line of women in "widow's weeds," each looking upon him with mournful and reproaching eyes. Around the horizon gleam the fires of a thousand burning hamlets, which with a solitary flash of lightning rending asunder the dense and gloomy volumes of smoke, shed a faint and lurid light over the scene. The smoke as it rises, first hangs in dense clouds around the horizon, but as it gradually mounts upward, is seized by the wind and wafted toward the center figure, assuming phantasmic forms, like ghosts in the cerements of the grave, which sweep over him, each, save the foremost, with outstretched arms points to the scene below. The foremost of these airy furies sweeps directly over Grant, bearing in her hands a crown dripping with blood, which she is about to place upon his head. In the foreground lie several skeletons which are just arising; one, as he struggles up, reaches his fleshless arm toward Grant, striving, apparently, to seize the decanter, while two others raise their arms, as if hailing him. To the left a ghastly army, myriads upon myriads of skeleton warriors, armed with sword and bayonet, and marshaled by skeleton horsemen, are marching toward the center,—the lines stretching far off in the background and lost in the smoke. To the right, at Grant's left hand, is an open door, behind which, with the right hand raised to the chin, and grinning with horrible delight, stands a fleshless form—the "skeleton behind the door." In the doorway, behind Grant, at his left hand, stands MEPHISTO. This is the most wonderful figure of the whole design. The artist has adopted as his prototype, Goethe's conception of the embodiment of the evil principle, and has carried it out with marvelous effect. He has not portrayed us the Northern phantom with horns, claws, tails, and the cloven foot; nor a human figure with distorted or hideous features. A vast, shadowy form, which, while it stands out in bold relief and seems almost tangible, still appears like a pillar of cloud, leans with the right shoulder against the door-post. A mantle falls loosely over the left shoulder and arm, which last is drawn easily up, with the hand resting on the hip. The weight of the body rests on the left leg, and the right is thrown across it. On the features is an expression of vast and profound knowledge, and he looks on the awful panorama with a calm and easy smile of enjoyment that has something fascinating, and yet terribly appalling about it.

Altogether it is one of the most remarkable productions that we have ever seen, and is destined to produce not only a sensation as a work of art, but to have a great political effect. Copies can be seen, this afternoon, at Messrs Church & Co's., or at the APPEAL editorial rooms.

YOAM KIPPURE.

The Feast of the Day of Atonement.

Its Signification, Ceremonies, Etc., Etc., Etc.

On Friday evening next, at sunset, commences the tenth day of Tishri, which is the anniversary of the day of atonement, celebrated as a high and solemn festival by the Israelites over the whole globe. The origin of this feast is to be found in Leviticus, chap. 23, vv. 26 and 32.) "And the Lord spake unto Moses, saying: Verily, on the tenth day of this month there shall be a day of atonement: it shall be an holy convocation unto you, and ye shall afflict your souls, and offer offering made by fire unto the Lord. And ye shall do no work in that same day: for it is a day of atonement for you before the Lord your God. For whatsoever soul it be that shall not be afflicted in that same day, he shall be cut off from among his people. And whatsoever soul it be that doeth any work in that same day, the same soul will I destroy from among his people. Ye shall do no manner of work: it shall be a statute forever throughout your generation: in all your dwellings. It shall be unto you a sabbath of rest, and ye shall afflict your souls: in the ninth day of the month, at even, from even unto even, shall ye celebrate your sabbath." It was on the tenth day of Tishri when Moses came down from the Mount Sinai with the second tables of stone containing the ten commandments, and also with the joyful tidings of Divine pardon for the sin of the crime of the golden calf, and as a token of their reconciliation. The repentance of Israel, and their restoration to His favor. He brought with him the divine order, (Ex. c. 25, v. 8.) "And let them make me a sanctuary (Mishkan) that I may dwell among them." As no account is given in scripture of the date of the going up of Moses into the mount, nor of his coming down at various times, and as it is left to the Biblical scholar to discover it, we find it, therefore, requisite to collect the verses relating to that account, in order to prove the veracity of the above date.

On the sixth day of Sivan, the third month of our ecclesiastical year, we received the ten commandments. The following day Moses went up into the mount, according to the order of God, (Ex. c. 24, v. 12): "Come up to me into the mount and be there, and I will give thee tables of stone, and a law, and commandments which I have written; that thou may est teach them."

Moses remained on the mount forty days and forty nights, which ended on the seventeenth day of the fourth month Tammuz, (Deut., c. 9, v. 11, 12): "And it came to pass at the end of forty days and forty nights, that the Lord gave me the two tables of stone, even the tables of the covenant; and the Lord said unto me, arise, get thee down quickly from hence, for thy people which thou hast brought forth from out of Egypt have corrupted themselves. And when I came down nigh unto the camp, and saw the calf and the dancing before it, his anger waxed hot, and he cast the tables out of his hands, and brake them beneath the mount."

And it came to pass on the morrow that Moses said unto the people, ye have sinned a great sin; and now I will go up unto the Lord, peradventure I will make an atonement for your sin," (Ex. c. 32, v. 30). Moses went up accordingly on the eighteenth of Tammuz, the fourth month, and remained again forty days and forty nights in constant prayer, when ended on the twenty-ninth day of Av., the fifth month, as recorded, (Deut. c. 9, v. 25): "Thus I fell down before the Lord forty days and forty nights, as I fell down at the first: because the Lord had said he would destroy you." At the end of the second forty days and forty nights, on the first day of Elul, and 5th month, "And the Lord said unto Moses: Hew thee two tables of stone like unto the first: and I will write upon these tables the words that were on the first tables which thou brakest, and be ready in the morning unto Mount Sinai, and present thyself there to me on top of the Mount."

According to the Divine Order, Moses went to receive the second tables of the testimony on the first day of the sixth month Elul, and remained there again forty days and forty nights, which ended on the tenth day of the month, which, with Tishri, as we find.—Deut. ch. seventh and 10, vol. 10. the Mount, according to the first thing, forty da- and forty nights; and the first thing forty da- me at that time also, and Lord hearkened unto -oy the-" the Lord would not de- (Rashy) in stu- Too celebrated commen- observes that the -ciclation of the above verse according to the words (kayomin horishonim): forty days and first time" insicate that the last forty nights were the favor of this before As the first forty days and forty nights the crime of the golden calf was commit- the second forty days and forty nights anger of God. Thus as the enormous crime- idolatry was pardoned and Israel restored unto the favor of the merciful God, and as a testimony before all nations of Israel's reconciliation to their God was marked by the delightful divine order, (Ex. c. 25, v. 8.) "And let them make me a sanctuary that I may dwell among them." This very day was, therefore, peculiarly established as a day of atonement throughout all their generations.

This day is observed in all synagogues and temples, by fasting, penitence and prayer. Man should make atonement to his fellow-man for all transgressions and unkindness; he should conciliate those he has offended, and endeavor to reconcile them before that day; for on that day he should make an atonement to God alone, for his many neks of wickedness and sin. For where? Oh, where is the perfect man? Who is there can say he is free from sin. (Lev. c. 16, v. 29.) "For on that day shall he make an atonement for you, to cleanse you, that ye may be clean from all your sins before the Lord."

The Omnipotent God who created time cannot be in want of time, and therefore the appointing of days for judgment and thanksgiving, is inconsistent with His divine nature; but all this was a kindness and a favor of our merciful God, conferred on man to appoint him a time to examine his conduct of the whole year, to repent of his errors, and to become reconciled to his God. "For I delight not in the death of the wicked, but that he return from his ways, and live.

CHANCERY COURT—A. Alston, Clerk and Master.—On yesterday an injunction was granted by Judge Hunter, returnable to the Chancery Court in the case of N. Malatesta vs. S. H. Beauman, Channing Richards, a. P. Burditt, L. R. Richards, City Register, and C. L. Chandler, Tax Collector, enjoining Beaumont, Burditt, Richards and Chandler from arresting or interfering in any manner with complainant for selling liquor without license. The plaintiff offered Chandler, Tax Collector, the sum of $5 for license, which was refused, he (Chandler) demanding the sum of $150 00, a sum excessive, oppressive, unequal and illegal, for city license.

GENERAL PIKE.—Under the head of "A new law firm—Pike & Johnson," the Washington National Intelligencer has the following:

The bar of the District of Columbia has just received a valuable accession in the advent of Gen. Albert Pike, formerly of Arkansas, and lately editor of the Memphis APPEAL, and Hon. Thomas N. Johnson, for many years Representative in Congress and United States Senator from Arkansas. These gentlemen have determined to make Washington city their permanent residence, and announce their readiness to give attention to law business and the prosecution of claims of every description in the various courts, and before Congress and the several departments. They both enjoy extensive popularity and high professional reputations. Gen. Pike is justly regarded as one of the ablest and most distinguished lawyers in the country. He has been repeatedly engaged here in some of the most important cases ever brought into the Supreme Court of the United States, and particularly successful in cases involving land titles and the rights of Indian tribes, and States and organized communities. He has few equals in the profession. Mr. Johnson's long service in the House of Representatives and the Senate has enabled him to acquire unusual familiarity with the laws, rules, and practice of the various departments. They are both eloquent speakers, and powerful in argument and pleading. As gentlemen of the most exalted integrity and reliability and ability in business matters, their reputations are spotless. We are sure they will receive hearty welcome from the whole profession here, and we cannot too warmly commend them to our friends who may need such services as they offer.

We are happy to announce, authoritatively that the statement so frequently made, that Gen. Pike intends removing to Washington city is not correct. Gen. Pike will continue to make Memphis his permanent home, and will only go to Washington when business calls him thither.

THE EXCURSION party of gentlemen who went out to Grand Junction yesterday to meet Gen. F. P. Blair, were disappointed in the great object of the trip, the General having been compelled to decline the invitation to New Orleans on account of the demands made upon his time by engagements in the Northwestern canvass. They had, however, the pleasure of meeting the committee from St. Louis which was bearing the flag presented by the Democracy of that city to the Blair Knights of New Orleans. Among the committee were Capt. Dan Able and Mr. Knapp of the St. Louis Republican. The excursion party from this city consisted of Messrs. John Donovan, Mat. O'Callaway, Jesse W. Page, jr., Alderman Passmore, Judge Brown, Judge Parkins, C. Partee, Dr. J. M. Keiser, and J. M. Keating. In spite of the disappointment at not seeing Missouri's favorite son, and the inclemency of the weather, the party is represented to have had a very pleasant time, returning to the city in a good humor with themselves and all the balance of the world, the Memphis and Charleston Railroad officials particularly, to whom, in their name, we return thanks for courtesies extended.

Exchange is firm, with little offering. Cotton bills are taken in all cases at par to ⅛c off, the latter from outsiders. Selling at ¼@½ premium on New York and other Eastern points. New Orleans sight is taken at ⅛c off and sold at ¼c premium.

Gold opened to-day in New York at 143⅝c and closed at 147¼c. We have no sales to report in the market. Buying nominally at 140@141c. Selling at 142c.

The New York Stock Board quotations were at noon to-day as follows: Old Tennessee bonds, 69½; new do, 69¾. Five-twenties of '81, 104½; '64, 105½; '65, 105½; '65, 105½; new issue, 95½; '67, 95½; '68, 95½; 10-40s, coupons, 97½; bonds strong; Erie, 43; New York Central, 120½.

There is complete stagnation in the stock and bond market. No offerings whatever and prices entirely nominal. Orders are on hand for city bonds at 80c, but remain unfilled.

City Scrip is quiet but firm. Brokers buy at 72@73c, while on the street buyers can be found at 73@74c. Selling at 75@80c as to amount.

County Bonds, thanks to the absence of the County Commissioners, are quite firm, and have an upward tendency. Dealers buy all desirable pieces readily at rates ranging from 75@78c, and sell at 80c.

Police Scrip is firm and scarce. Buying at 80@82c. Selling at 85@90c.

Eighty-four million dollars were expended during the months of July and August by the corrupt officials of the Government under which we live—or just about the amount expended during Pierce's administration of four years, which included a large portion of the expenses incurred by the Mexican war. The Secretary reports as follows for July:

Civil, miscellaneous and foreign intercourse	$ 4,719,000
Interest on public debt	11,909,000
War	7,026,000
Navy	2,641,000
Interior—Pensions and Indians	654 000
Total	$46,549,000

And for August the Secretary reports the following sums expended:

Civil, miscellaneous and foreign intercourse, including the Alaska purchase	$13 000,000
Interest on the public debt	4,880,000
War	11,800,000
Navy	1,900 000
Interior—Pensions and Indians	6 400,000
Total	$37,630,000

COTTON.

Cotton in Liverpool at the opening to-day was easier though not quotably lower—Uplands, 10½d; Orleans, 10¾—and closed dull with Uplands, 10d; Orleans, 10¾d.

The New York market opened dull with prices unchanged. At noon the market was dull and prices lower—Low Middlings, 26c; Uplands, 26c; Orleans, 26½c. The closing dispatch gave no quotations.

Our market was dull, with no buyers. Probably a dozen bales were sold on a basis of 23½@23¾c for Middlings. It would have taken a very bright style of this grade to reach 24c, at which several lots were offered—one containing over 50 bales and another nearly 20 bales. The reports from the interior are anything but cheering.

We learn that an order for 12,000 bales of Strict Middlings has already been received by one of our cotton buyers, but we question whether it can be filled this season.

Wells & Chisholm, of Charleston, in their annual circular for 1868, estimate the growing crop, or total receipts, at the various ports during 1868-9, at 82,195,000 bales. This estimate is too large by 300,000 bales.

Cotton, which was never grown in Sonora to any noteworthy extent until within the last five years, now yields a crop worth $200,000 or more, annually, and the cultivation is spreading. The Egyptian variety is preferred, because it ripens earlier than the Mississippi cotton, and much of it can be gathered before the worms do any harm.

Cotton fabrics, made exclusively of tax-paid cotton, according to a recent decision of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, are entitled to a drawback when the goods may be exported; but if the fabric is made of material upon a part of which the tax has been paid, no tax having been paid on the other part, no drawback can be allowed.

TRADE.

Messrs. Newton Ford & Co. yesterday received a car load of iron from New Orleans, over the Mississippi and Tennessee Railroad. This car load, which contained 16 000 pounds, cost $70, or about 45½c per 100, and is the first load yet received under the new tariff adopted a short time ago.

In consequence of the very heavy rain, there was little doing in our general markets to-day. Meats are weak and in very light demand. There is no corn or oats of consequence coming in, and prices are firm.

The Paris Kentuckian reports the Bourbon whisky trade as quite active. Sales are enumerated of 2545 barrels, all sold within the last ten days, besides a number of small sales to retailers, which are not mentioned. Henry Spears sold one hundred barrels of Clay, Spears & Co.'s make at $1 20; and J. Cunningham one hundred barrels of Warnall & Hutchinson's at $1—all of last season's make.

Some idea of the iniquity of the present tariff will be afforded by the fact that trace chains are taxed 15 per cent. upon their value, and wood screws 400 per cent—in gold. Upon an average of every dollar a man spends in purchasing, one-half of it is gobbled up in taxes by the best Government in the world.

There was lately sold in Alabama some of the very best land in the State, for taxation, for one dollar and one cent per acre. There was no incumbrance—no anything—but the official lookout should have had something to do in producing this great sacrifice. This is the effect of Radical reconstruction.

APPLES—Light receipts. Choice would sell at $3@4 per barrel in bulk.

BAGGING—Active demand and prices firm. Todds, 17@18½c; heavy Kentucky, 23½@26c; India, 26@27c.

WOLFE'S
Schiedam Schnapps.

THE above Medicinal Beverage is manufactured by the proprietor, at his distillery, in Schiedam, Holland, expressly for medicinal use.

It is now some twenty years since the proprietor first introduced it to the American public, and during that time he has received over three thousand letters from physicians, indorsing it as the purest liquor they have ever used in their practice.

It is made from barley of the finest quality, selected with great care from the products of the most celebrated grain-growing districts, and flavored with the essence of the aromatic juniper-berry of Italy, and is rectified by a peculiar process, which expels from it all fiery spirit or acrid particle.

As a means of preventing and correcting the disagreeable and often dangerous effect produced upon the stomach and bowels by a change of water—a visitation to which travelers, new settlers, and all unacclimated persons in the West, the South, and Southwest are peculiarly liable—the SCHIEDAM AROMATIC SCHNAPPS will be found absolutely infallible; while in cases of dropsy, gravel, obstructions of the kidneys, diseases of the bladder, stricture, dyspepsia, and general debility, it is recommended most emphatically by the most distinguished members of the medical profession.

It is put up in quart and pint bottles, in cases, with the name of the undersigned on the bottle and cork, and a fac-simile of his signature on the label. For sale by all respectable druggists and country merchants.

COTTON GINS.

Pratt's Southern Made Cotton Gin

THIS GIN is regarded by planters who have used it, as the best for sample, picking the seed clean and light draught. Planters cultivating bottom lands are requested to examine the Eureka Gin at Farrington & Howell's, 268 Front street. It will pay for itself in ginning fifty bales. D. N. Gunnison, manufacturer of the Steel Comb Gin before the war but now a planter, gives the following certificate:

"MEMPHIS, TENN., January 31, 1868.

"I take pleasure in recommending to planters cultivating Cotton on bottom lands of the Mississippi, Arkansas, White and St. Francis rivers, the Eureka gin, made by Daniel Pratt, of Alabama. This Gin separates the hulls, bolls, etc., from the Seed Cotton, makes a good sample, and is superior to any other Gin for bottom lands. I have used one myself on a farm in Washington county, Miss., and it operates well and gives entire satisfaction in every respect. A. N. GUNNISON."

Orders for Gins, from 40 to 80 Saws and Gum Belting, at Factory Prices, addressed to the care of FARRINGTON & HOWELL, 268 Front street, Memphis, promptly filled. Passes and Gearing put up, and Gins repaired by a skillful Ginwright. G. W. TERRILL & CO.

MR. ROGERS' NEW CHURCH.—Editors Appeal: That my "invitation to the public," to the first services, on next Sunday, in the Greenlaw Opera House, published in Sunday's issue of your paper, may not be misunderstood, I have to request you for the space in your columns, to state that the "Dean" did not give his approbation as the representative of the Bishop, but in his capacity as a Priest of the city of Memphis. J. W. ROGERS.

A CHARACTERISTIC RADICAL FALSEHOOD was told by the evening Radical organ a few evenings since in charging the "Democratic Board of aldermen" with having imposed a tax of fifty dollars on every "colored man" who may venture within the limits of the city with a load of wood. It also adds the assertion that this action was sanctioned by the mayor, and as a crowning falsehood, gives a Radical alderman the credit of having secured its repeal. The facts in the matter are simply these: The ordinance was presented to the Board by a Radical alderman. Its adoption was found to work with a severity not intended by its author or those who supported it, and so a special meeting of the Board was called by the mayor, who in a verbal message recommended its repeal, which was done without a dissenting voice. The insidious baseness of the falsehood consists in the use of the word colored, and by this means trying to make the ignorant negro believe the ordinance did not apply equally to white and black.

PERSONAL.

Our much esteemed young friend Wm. B. Leidy, for the last two years connected with the drug house of H. C. We were pleased to meet Prof. H. C. Lippard, who arrived in our city last evening. This will be pleasing news to the many young Misses and Masters of Memphis to whom the Professor is well known.

THE TAX ON MERCHANDISE.

Meeting of the Chamber of Commerce.

Resolutions of the Merchants Not to Pay the Tax.

The hall of the Chamber of Commerce was filled yesterday evening with the merchants of the city, who assembled in response to the call of Mr. Humes, of the firm of Humes, Poston & Webb, to hear his opinion and take concerted action on the matter of the tax on merchandise as now levied by the State and collected by Mr. Longue.

At 5 o'clock the meeting was called to order, and Mr. Humes was called to the chair. Mr. Humes, in laying before the meeting the object in calling them together, made a short address, amounting to about the same thing as the letter published in the APPEAL yesterday morning. He stated that the action of the State was undoubtedly illegal, and that a recourse to the courts would relieve them of the burdens entailed upon them.

By the Constitution of the United States, the power to tax imports from foreign States, and to regulate Commerce between the States of the Union, is entrusted to Congress. The Supreme Court of the United States decided many years ago that this power to tax imports from other States, or from foreign States, was exclusively vested in Congress, and that no State of the Union could levy a tax on such imports, in the hands of the importer, or upon sales by the importer in the original package. This decision has been reaffirmed several times by the same court, and has been uniformly acquiesced in by the State courts. It is an established rule of law, beyond the danger of reversal.

This tax is operating as a discrimination against Memphis in favor of the cities of adjoining States. The repetition of the tax on each successive sale is also illegal, and operates as an additional burden on the Memphis merchants. If the merchants of Memphis will all unite to resist this tax, we are satisfied it can be stopped at once.

Wm. R. Moore, Esq., arose, and in a very forcible address urged a united effort on the part of the merchants to break down the odious law, and wound up by offering a resolution, that hereafter no merchant pay the tax to Mr. Longue until the legality of the law be tested and a decision rendered by the courts.

Mr. Moore's motion received several seconds, but before a vote could be taken I. M. Hill, Esq., said that he would like to be allowed a few words on the subject. He thought that the merchants were acting prematurely and too hastily, citing as a precedent the action of the merchants of this city some twenty years ago. He was against the tax as much as any of them, but was opposed to taking any such action in the premises. It was only postponing the evil day. He knew it from experience. Twenty odd years before there was a tax of 1½ per cent. laid on the merchants, and they refused to pay it, and went to law about it. The courts all decided against them, from the lowest to the highest. For his part he did not want to buck against the State of Tennessee. It was a little expensive, he could tell them, and annoying too. He thought they were going into this thing rashly, and the result would be the same.

The Chair said he thought Mr. Hill was mistaken. He had studied the matter thoroughly for two months, and if any decision had been rendered on this point, he did not know it. The Chair then went on to show that the case spoken of by Mr. Hill and the present one had no analogy to each other. In the course of his remarks he said that he did not want the impression to go abroad that he was counselling the merchants to defy or set aside any of the laws of Tennessee. He was only counselling them to try a lawful means of relieving themselves of what he believed to be an unlawful burden.

After some further discussion Capt. Moore offered the following resolution, which was adopted, and the meeting adjourned:

Resolved, That we, the merchants of Memphis, having no dissolution to dissolve or set at defiance any of the laws of Tennessee, do, nevertheless, determine that inasmuch as we are oppressed beyond endurance by the present tax on privileges, and its construction by our county clerk, we will unanimously refuse to pay that portion which we believe to be illegal until we can get a decision from the courts as to its legality.

COL. CAMERON.

Cross County Indorses Him.

Preamble and Resolutions.

Editors Appeal: A Democratic meeting was held and a club organized at Cherry Valley, Cross county, Ark., on the 5th inst. The following preamble and resolutions were adopted:

WHEREAS, "Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty," and it is the duty of the people so to elect a Chief Magistrate in the place of Andrew Johnson, and

Whereas, There is now going on a most stupendous attempt to fasten upon the country permanently the reign of Radicalism by the election of Gen. Grant to the Presidential office, and by the enforcement of a series of measures inaugurated by the (so-called) Congress of the United States, many of which are subversive of the liberties of the people, and in palpable derogation of the Constitution of the United States, therefore, be it

Resolved, That we, a portion of the people of Cross county, in view of the exigencies of the occasion, hereby pledge ourselves to exert our utmost energies for the defeat of the nominees of the Radical party and for the election of Seymour and Blair to the offices of President and Vice President of the United States.

Resolved, That we are in favor of organizing Democratic clubs in all parts of the State for the purpose of more effectually securing the co-operation of all the elements of opposition to the success of the dynasty now in power.

Resolved, That we are sincerely in favor of peace, and opposed to war as a remedy for existing evils, that the "ballot and not the bullet" is our doctrine now, and that we have looked with distress upon the efforts of our enemies in the so-called Congress of the United States, and in the bogus Legislature of our own State, whenever last they adjourned, to overturn the ballot box a large majority of the white men of the State, and the admission to the polls of all the inferior race, thus subverting the fundamental principles upon which our government was founded.

Resolved, That we indorse and approve every word of the platform of principles enunciated by the great Democratic Convention which nominated our standard bearer in this contest, and that we have an abiding faith in the determination of the American people to elect them.

Resolved, That we hail the advent into our midst of such a "carpet-bagger" as the Hon. C. S. Cameron, with pleasure, and that we have plenty of room for many more of the same sort, and that we heartily indorse his nomination as our candidate for Congress, and we call upon all men in his District, who are in favor of equal rights among white men, to rally to his support.

Resolved, That copies of these proceedings be forwarded to the Gazette and to the APPEAL, with request to pub lish the same.

J. BOWERS, President.
B. ROBESON, Secretary.

EDITORIAL.—Mr. GATES, editor of that sterling old sheet, the West Tennessee Whig, in the issue of that paper of Saturday last, says truly, and as we put rid of radicalism, advocate a meeting of the editors of Tennessee, at Nashville, for the purpose, among other things, of proposing a release of "us poor cusses" from the proscription to which we are subjected by the office-seekers for whom we work so hard. He says:

It has ever been astonishing to us that the editors of the country, combining as they do as much talent, genius and merit, as any other class of men of an equal number, and who really mould public opinion, and direct it with the powerful lever of the Press, should so long have submitted to this proscription. Whilst we, individually, have no ambition for office, (as the private post is now the post of honor) we are resolved to assert and maintain the rights of editors, equally with other classes; and, as soon as we emerge from Brownlow's despotism we shall advocate a Convention of the editors of Tennessee to meet at Nashville, to take in consideration, among other things, the proscription under which they have so long remained.

Go in Colonel, we'll back you up.

VELOCIPEDES would sell well in Memphis, and we wonder that some enterprising merchant has not already introduced them to our notice. We need some other means of locomotion than those at present in vogue. The street railroad tariff is very high, and a man may walk (as we have done) twenty minutes on the corner of Jefferson and Main for a car before one passes; and after one does come along, the pace at which it travels is only equaled in slowness by that of a snail. As to hacks, they are out of the question to a business man, unless he is a Croesus. Velocipedes are the thing. Who will reap the first harvest from their introduction?

We have received from the artist, our friend James R. Stuart, Esq., at present of St. Louis, but formerly, for a time at least, a resident of Memphis,—a photographic copy of a drawing in India ink, entitled, "Let us have Peace," "Delirium Tremendous, or Grant's Dream." As a pictorial "campaign document," it is the most terribly striking production that has yet appeared. The photographic copy before us is about eight inches long by four broad. The center figure is Grant. With mouth half open, and staring eyes starting from his head in horror, he stands aghast at the hideous phantasmagoria with which he is surrounded. Around his feet, which are planted wide apart, serpents and vermin are writhing and hissing. In his left hand he grasps a decanter, while his right is held by a female figure, clad in black and with dishevelled hair, crouched upon the earth, with her right hand raised—a Nemesis invoking vengeance, and pointing him the horrors around him. Another female form, clad like the first, with outstretched arm, points to an army of vast and countless myriads of skeletons. Behind these two stands a long line of women in "widow's weeds," each looking upon him with mournful and reproaching eyes. Around the horizon gleam the fires of a thousand burning hamlets, which with a solitary flash of lightning rending asunder the dense and gloomy volumes of smoke, shed a faint and lurid light over the scene. The smoke as it rises, first hangs in dense clouds around the horizon, but as it gradually mounts upward, is seized by the wind and wafted toward the center figure, assuming phantasmic forms, like ghosts in the cerements of the grave, which sweep over him, each, save the foremost, with outstretched arms points to the scene below. The foremost of these airy forms sweeps directly over Grant, beading in her hands a crown dripping with blood, which she is about to place upon his head. In the foreground lie several skeletons which are just arising; one, as he struggles up, reaches his fleshless arm toward Grant, striving, apparently, to seize the decanter, while two others raise their arms, as if hailing him. To the left a ghastly army, myriads upon myriads of skeleton warriors, armed with sword and bayonet, and marshaled by skeleton horsemen, are marching toward the center,—the lines receding far off in the background and lost in the smoke. To the right, at Grant's left hand, is an open door, behind which, with the right hand raised to the chin, and grinning with horrible delight, stands a fleshless form—the "skeleton behind the door." In the doorway, behind Grant, at his left hand, stands Marryou. This is the most wonderful figure of the whole design. The artist has adopted as his prototype, Goethe's conception of the embodiment of the evil principle, and has carried it out with marvelous effect. He has not portrayed us the Northern phantom with horns, claws, tails, and the cloven foot; nor a human figure with distorted or hideous features. A vast, shadowy form, which, while it stands out in bold relief and seems almost tangible, is still apparently like a pillar of cloud, leans with the right shoulder against the door-post. A mantle falls loosely over the left shoulder and arm, which last is drawn easily up, with the hand resting on the hip. The weight of the body rests on the left leg, and the right is thrown across it. On the features is an expression of vast and profound knowledge, and he looks on the awful panorama with a calm and easy smile of enjoyment that has something fascinating, and yet terribly appalling about it.

Altogether it is one of the most remarkable productions that we have ever seen, and is destined to produce not only a sensation as a work of art, but to have a great political effect. Copies can be seen, this afternoon, at Mears Church & Co's, or at the APPEAL editorial rooms.

YOAM KIPPURE.

The Feast of the Day of Atonement.

Its Signification, Ceremonies, Etc., Etc., Etc.

On Friday evening next, at sunset, commences the tenth day of Tishri, which is the anniversary of the day of atonement, celebrated as a high and solemn festival by the Israelites over the whole globe. The origin of this feast is to be found in Leviticus, (chap. 23, vv. 26 and 32,) "And the Lord spake unto Moses, saying: Verily, on the tenth day of this month there shall be a day of atonement: it shall be an holy convocation unto you, and ye shall afflict your souls, and offer offering made by fire unto the Lord. And ye shall do no work in that same day: for it is a day of atonement for you before the Lord your God. For whatsoever soul it be that shall not be afflicted in that same day, he shall be cut off from among his people. And whatsoever soul it be that doeth any work in that same day, the same soul will I destroy from among his people. Ye shall do no manner of work: it shall be a statute forever throughout your generation: in all your dwellings it shall be unto you a sabbath of rest, and ye shall afflict your souls: in the ninth day of the month, at even, from even unto even, shall ye celebrate your sabbath." It was on the fiftieth day of Iyar when Moses came down from the Mount Sinai with the second tables of stone containing the ten commandments, and on which the joyful tidings of Divine pardon for the enormous crime of the golden calf, and as a mark of their reconciliation to the God of Israel, and their restoration to His favor. He brought with him the divine order, (Ex. c. 25, v. 8): "And let them make me a sanctuary (the tabernacle) that I may dwell among them." At the second time he is given in scripture of the date of the going up of Moses into the mount, no: of his coming down at various times, and as it is left to the Jewish scholar to discover it, we find it, therefore, requisite to collect the verses relating to that second, in order to prove the veracity of the above data.

On the sixth day of Sivan, the third month of our ecclesiastical year, we received the ten commandments. The following day Moses went up into the mount, according to the order of God, (Ex., c. 24, v. 12): "Come up to me into the mount and be there, and I will give thee tables of stone, and a law, and commandments which I have written: that thou mayest teach them."

Moses remained on the mount forty days and forty nights, which ended on the seventeenth day of Tamuz, when he

FINANCE AND TRADE.

FINANCE.

OFFICE OF THE DAILY APPEAL,
MEMPHIS, September 22, 1868.

There was not much doing in money circles to-day. The late raids have made our bankers cautious in granting favors predicated upon the coming crops, and discounting No. 1 paper is rarely done.

Exchange is firm, with little offering. Cotton bills are taken in all cases at par to ¼c off, the latter from outsiders. Selling at ¼@⅝c premium on New York and other Eastern points New Orleans sight is taken at ¾c off and sold at ⅛c premium.

Gold opened to-day in New York at 140⅝c and closed at 140¾c. We have no sales to report in this market. Buying nominally at 140@141c. Selling at 142c.

The New York Stock Board quotations were at noon to-day as follows: Old Tennessee bonds, 68¾; new do, 69¾. Five-twenties of '62, 114¼; '64, 113½; '65, 113½; '65, 113½; new issue, 9½; '67, 9¾; '68, 9¾; 10-40s, coupons, 4½; bonds, strong; Erie, 48; New York Central, 129¾.

There is complete stagnation in the stock and bond market. No offerings whatever and prices entirely nominal. Orders are on hand for city loads at 60c, but remain unfilled.

City Scrip is quiet but firm. Brokers buy at 72@73c, while on the street buyers can be found at 73@74c. Selling at 75@80 as to amount.

County Bonds, thanks to the absence of the County Commissioners, are quite firm, and have an upward tendency. Dealers buy all desirable pieces readily at rates ranging from 77@78c, and sell at 80c.

Police Scrip is firm and scarce. Buying at 80@82c. Selling at 85@90c.

Eighty-four million dollars were expended during the months of July and August by the corrupt officials of the Government under which we live—or just about the amount expended during Pierce's administration of four years, which included a large portion of the expenses incurred by the Mexican war. The Secretary reports as follows for July:

Civil, miscellaneous and foreign intercourse	$ 4,719,000
Interest on public debt	21,509,000
War	7,020,000
Navy	2,641,000
Interior—Pensions and Indians	654,000
Total	$48,549,000

And for August the Secretary reports the following sums expended:

Civil, miscellaneous and foreign intercourse, including the Alaska purchase	$12,000,000
Interest on the public debt	4,830,000
War	11,800,000
Navy	1,600,000
Interior—Pensions and Indians	6,400,000
Total	$37,630,000

COTTON.

Cotton in Liverpool at the opening to-day was easier though not quotably lower—Uplands, 10¾d; Orleans, 10⅝@—and closed dull with Uplands, 10d; Orleans, 10¼d.

The New York market opened dull with prices unchanged. At noon the market was dull and prices lower—Low Middlings, 25c; Uplands, 28c; Orleans, 30½c. The closing dispatch gave no quotations.

Our market was dull, with no buyers. Probably a dozen bales were sold on a basis of 23½@23½c for Middlings. It would have taken a very bright style of this grade to reach 24c, at which several lists were offered—one containing over 50 bales and another nearly 20 bales. The reports from the interior are anything but cheering.

We learn that an order for 12,000 bales of Strict Middlings has already been received by one of our cotton buyers, but we question whether it can be filled this season.

Willis & Chisholm, of Charleston, in their annual circular for 1868, estimate the growing crop, or total receipts, at the various ports during 1868-9, at 2,185,000 bales. This estimate is too large by 300,000 bales.

Cotton, which was never grown in Sonora to any noteworthy extent until within the last five years, now yields a crop worth $200,000 or more, annually, and the cultivation is spreading. The Egyptian variety is preferred, because it ripens earlier than the Mississippi cotton, and much of it can be gathered before the worms do any harm.

Cotton fabrics, made exclusively of tax-paid cotton, according to a recent decision of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, are entitled to a drawback when the goods may be exported; but if the fabric is made of material upon a part of which the tax has been paid, no tax having been paid on the other part, no drawback can be allowed.

TRADE.

Messrs. Newton Ford & Co. yesterday received a car load of iron ties from New Orleans, over the Mississippi and Tennessee Railroad. This car load, which contained 16 000 pounds, cost $70, or about 45c per 100, and is the first load yet received under the new tariff adopted a short time ago.

In consequence of the very heavy rain, there was little doing in our general markets to-day. Meats are weak and in very light demand. There is no corn or oats of consequence coming in, and prices are firm.

The Paris Kentuckian reports the Bourbon whisky trade as quite active. Sales are enumerated of 2545 barrels, all sold within the last ten days, besides a number of small sales to retailers, which are not mentioned. Henry Spears sold one hundred barrels of Clay, Spears & Co.'s make at $1 20; and J. Cunningham one hundred barrels of Warnall & Hutchinson's at $1—all of last season's make.

Some idea of the iniquity of the present tariff will be afforded by the fact that trace chains are taxed 125 per cent. upon their value, and wood screws 60 per cent.—in gold. Upon an average of every dollar a man spends in purchasing, one-half of it is gobbled up in taxes by the best Government in the world.

There was lately sold in Alabama some of the very best land in the State, at public auction, for one dollar and one cent per acre. There was no incumbrance—no mortgage. All the dismal lookout ahead that had anything to do in producing this great sacrifice. This is the effect of Radical reconstruction.

APPLES—Light receipts. Choice would sell at $3@4 per barrel in bulk.

BAGGING—Active demand and prices firm. Todd's, 17@18½c; heavy Kentucky, 23½@26c; India, 26@27c.

BRAN—Stock not large but equal to the demand. Selling at $21@22 from mills and levee; $23 from store.

BUTTER—Stock not large, with demand fair for choice at 35@38c.

BACON—Market dull; 5 casks clear sides sold on levee at 16½c. Held at 16½@16¾c in small way. Shoulders 12¼@12½; 10 casks Clear Sides on levee were refused at 16½.

CHEESE—Prices are irregular, with light stock and demand.

COFFEE—Rio, 22@26½c; Java, 40@42c.

CORN—None on levee. Selling from store at 95@$1 by the dray load. New shelled nominally 70@70c. New ear, 70@75. A round lot of old on landing or at depot would sell readily at 90c.

CORNMEAL—Firm. Fresh, $1 20@1 25. Kilndried, $4 @4 05.

CATTLE—Market poorly supplied. Choice Western, 6@7c; No. 2, 3@5c; inferior and Texas, 3½@4½c.

CHICKENS—Light supply but rather weaker to-day. Young, $4@4 50; old, $3.

EGGS—Firm at 25@26c.

FRUIT—Dried apples in demand at 6@7c; Dried peaches, 8@10c.

FLOUR—Market is dull. Superfine, $6 50@7; X, $8@9 50; XX, $10@11; XXX and fancy family, $11 50@12.

HAY—Sales of 110 bales on levee at $21 00. Choice in store $24@25.

HAMS—Country sugar-cured canvassed, 18c; city do, 20@20½c; plain canvassed, 17@17½c; dry salt, 17@18c; green salt, 16@16½c; green, 8c.

IRON—2½@8—Good demand. Held at 6½@7c as to style of tie.

LARD—Prices unchanged, [illegible] tierces, 19@19½c. Sales of [illegible] kegs, 20@20½c; 25c.

LIME—Cape and [illegible] $2 @2 25.

MOLASSES—[illegible]abama, $1 50@2. Eureka, $1; Porto [illegible]

MESS PORK—[illegible]rico, 65@85c; Syrups, 75c@$1 25.

PORK—Stock fair. Mess, $29 50@33 00; Prime Mess, $27; Rump, $23; Sides, $26.

OATS—Very light receipts. Selling at 63@64c on levee; 70c in store.

OILS—Coal oil, 35@40c; lard oil, $1 40@1 75; linseed, $1 20@1 40.

ONIONS—Stock very light. Firm at $3@4 per bbl.

POTATOES—Good shipping are in demand at $1 per bushel. Sweet, 75c@$1 per bushel.

RICE—Very little selling. Held at 9½@10c.

SHEEP—Stock only moderate. Choice Western, $4@5 50 per head; Tennessee, $3@3 50 as to quality.

SUGAR—The stock on hand is fair. We quote prime to choice Louisiana, 16@18c; common to fair, 14@15c; Island, 12½@16c.

SALT—Prices firm. Held at 40@3 50 per barrel of 280 lbs; 7 bushel barrels, $4 25@4 50; Liverpool sack, coarse and fine, $2 50@3 3.

TAR—In kegs, per dozen, $5 75@6.

TOBACCO—Market firm and prices same as last week. Stock large and well selected.

WHEAT—There is none coming in. No. 1 nominally $1 90@1; No. 2, $1 85@1 90; inferior, $1 60@1 75.

WHISKY—Very fair demand. No high wines in market. Common, $1 00@1 35. Bourbon, $2 00@3 00.

WOLFE'S
Schiedam Schnapps.

THE above Medicinal Beverage is manufactured by the proprietor, at his distillery, in Schiedam, Holland, expressly for medicinal use.

It is now some twenty years since the proprietor first introduced it to the American public, and during that time he has received over three thousand letters from physicians, endorsing it as the purest liquor they have ever used in their practice.

It is made from barley of the finest quality, selected with great care from the produce of the most celebrated grain-growing districts, and flavored with the essence of the aromatic juniper-berry of Italy, and is rectified by a peculiar process, which expels from the spirit every acrid particle.

As a means of preventing and correcting the disagreeable and often dangerous effect produced upon the stomach and bowels by a change of water—a visitation to which travelers, new settlers, and all unacclimated persons in the West, the South, and Southwest are particularly liable—the SCHIEDAM AROMATIC SCHNAPPS will be found absolutely infallible, while in cases of dropsy, gravel, obstructions of the kidneys, diseases of the bladder, stricture, dyspepsia and general debility, it is recommended most emphatically by the most distinguished members of the medical profession.

It is put up in quart and pint bottles, in the bottle and cork, and a fac-simile of his signature on the label. For sale by all respectable druggists and country merchants.

COTTON GINS

Pratt's Southern Made Cotton Gin

THIS GIN is regarded by planters who have used it, as the best for sample, picking the seed clean and light draught. Planters cultivating bottom lands are requested to examine the Eureka Gin at Farrington & Howell's, 268 Front street. It will pay for itself in ginning fifty bales. A. N. GUNNISON, manufacturer of the Steel Comb Gin before the war but now a planter, gives the following certificate:

MEMPHIS, TENN., January 31, 1868.

"I take pleasure in recommending to planters cultivating Cotton on bottom lands of the Mississippi, Arkansas, White and St. Francis rivers, the Eureka Gin, made by Daniel Pratt, of Alabama. This Gin separates the bulls, bolls, etc., from the Seed Cotton, makes a good sample, and is superior to any other Gin for bottom lands. I have used one myself on a farm in Washington county, Miss., and it operates well and gives entire satisfaction in every respect.
A. N. GUNNISON."

Orders for Gins, from 40 to 80 Saws, and Gum Belting, at Factory Prices, addressed to the care of FARRINGTON & HOWELL, 268 Front street, Memphis, promptly filled. Presses and Gearing put up, and Gins repaired by a skillful Gin wright.
